Fellow-citizens: It is with a good deal of pleasure that I appear before you this evening, although I am not a public speaker, and it isn't often that I have ever tried to make a public speech.

But this is a time when we are all interested in the same things, and all I interested in the same things, and all I interested in the same things, just as friends and neighbors and fellow-citizens ought to get together and discuss such matters. I think I can call you friends and neighbors, for though I have not the pleasure of knowing you all personally, I see some here whom I do know personally, and who know me personally, and this is a time when common interests make all of us friends and neighbors who want to do the friends and neighbors who want to do the friends and neighbors who want to do the best thing for ourselves and for the Islands where we live.

We are to have an election next 6th of November. We are going to choose a man to go to Congress and represent us there, and do the best he can to get the United States to improve our harbors and build lighthouses on our coasts, and postbuild lighthouses on our coasts, and post-offices where we need them, and to see that as little a spot as we are and as far away from the Mainland as we are, Un-cle Sam doesn't forget us.

WHAT THE LEGISLATURE WILL DO. a king of Kauai, of royal descent and in direct line of succession for the throne this is something that the poor man is just as much interested in as the rich man, and the Hawaiian just as much as the foreigner. The Legislature will make our laws for us. It will make appropriations for schools, and roads, and the opening up of public lands for homesteads, so that every man can have a little home in which to raise his family and some land on which he can make a living for his family. But we want roads to these homesteads and the Legislature will pro-WHAT THE LEGISLATURE WILL DO. vide for that. But the most important thing the Leg-

David's Emissary Thought He Had the Garibaldian "Fixed Right."

The true source of the persistent statements that Bob Wilcox will retire the writer says: from the candidacy for Delegate to Congress of the Independents and that Independents in convention, has come to light.

Franklin Austin has been the assiduthough nominally a member of the In-dependent Party has been retained by David to help his cause among the adherents of Wilcox. Austin has frankly and openly opposed Wilcox and has tried to hurt him in every way.

He has made an aggressive campaign against Bob and has not hesitated to beard the lion in his den and to talk against the Garibaldian even in Independent headquarters. Now however it is all over.

Austin has shot his bolt and falled. Austin's scheme was to bring Wilcox to a sense of his unfitness for the office of Delegate to Congress and to have him voluntarily retire from the field and perhaps accept a Senatorial nomina-

Austin was empowered by Prince David to spend good Kalakaua and Goddess of Liberty dollars to achieve his end and has been a prominent guest of the Hawaiian Hotel for some weeks. He mixed freely with the Indepen-dents and cited Bob's faults to them unceasingly. He was jovial and gen-for a small boy and the scene was inwith such a title, and with such a Austin and couched in courtly but un-tensely dramatic.

Wilcox read it slowly. His face grew the "men of brains, wealth and posi- pale and he rose to his feet with a ges-- ture that had not a little dignity in it. "You-," he said. The words failed

Talk to Mormone.

Yesterday four political speaktheir respective parties to a large crowd of natives who were on their way home after the Mormon conference. While the crowd was waiting for the train at Kahuku, J. E. Bush and S. K. Kaloa helped to while away the monotony of the waiting hours by telling of Bryanite principles while D. Kealakathonua, an elder of the Church of Christ of the Latter Day Saints and Daniel Kekaha spoke on Republicanism. There were about 700 natives present and all enjoyed doctrines of the two great political parties of the United States.
